Invitation to the International Scientific Conference on

„THE STRATEGIES FOR SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT IN THE EU-COUNTRIES
AND IN ITS NEIGHBORING COUNTRIES”

Dear Colleague,

We would like to kindly draw your attention to this year's International Conference, organized and hosted by the Polonia University in Czestochowa (Poland).

The conference has evolved to reflect the current issues of sustainability and seeks research papers from a wide field of sustainable development. The sustainability can only be delivered if the tools and techniques, the concepts and models and the theories are rolled out across the largest possible spread of companies, organisation or regions. There are required in the economy more radical changes from an ecological and social point of view.

The goal of conference is to assure that a high level of social-economic development, environmental protection, and initiative promotion exists not only within European countries. Even though Europe generally applies the best procedures, it is still necessary to guard against any negative tendencies; and decidedly, it is important to strive to make the changes that occur in the social, economic life better by discovering new, sustainable methods that increase economic growth while considering the ecological and social issues.

Please note that the call for abstracts is still open until Juni 30. We welcome research from all fields sustainability. We would be delighted to welcome you this October in Czestochowa on the International Scientific Conference. For more details see: www.ap.edu.pl/konferencja2008

Your sincerely,
